The De' Longhi Group reports 2007 preliminary revenues of about € 1,484 million, with a growth of 8.9% vs. the 2006 revenues (€ 1,363 million).

Such performance is obtained despite the general appreciation of Euro against all main foreign currencies (specifically US Dollar and Japanese Yen).

All continental Europe (except Italy) and Eastern Europe (Russia above all) are growing very well. In the remaining countries the growth is satisfactory, while USA and UK are slowing.

In the fourth quarter revenues amount to about € 467 million, thus growing by 5.1% against the € 444.2 million of the same period of 2006, thanks to the prevailing contribution of the Household division.
